

Trip Report: Barcelona, Spain – January 5th to January 12th

I am excited to embark on a one-week trip to Barcelona from January 5th to January 12th. The journey promises to be an enriching cultural experience, as I will have the opportunity to explore the city's architectural wonders, historical landmarks, and beautiful surroundings. Here's a detailed breakdown of my travel arrangements and plans

Flight:

For my flight to Barcelona, I have chosen a layover flight with a stop in Istanbul. While I usually prefer direct flights for their convenience and time-saving benefits, there were no direct options available during the period I intend to travel. Despite the layover, this flight fits my schedule and budget well. The outbound flight takes approximately 9.5 hours, and the return flight will take 8.5 hours, including the layover. Additionally, the flight includes complimentary baggage allowances, which adds extra value to my travel plans. Overall, this flight offers a balance between affordability and travel time, making it a practical choice.

The screenshot shows the Trip.com website interface for booking a flight to Barcelona. The page is divided into four main steps: 1. Fill in your info, 2. Top Sellers, 3. Select Add-ons, and 4. Finalize your payment. The current step is 'Fill in your info', which displays the flight details for a round trip from Amman to Barcelona.

Accommodation:

During my stay in Barcelona, I have decided to book a private room at TOC Hostel Barcelona. This modern and vibrant hostel is ideally located in the heart of the city, providing convenient access to major attractions like La Rambla, the Gothic Quarter, and more. I've chosen a private room with a private bathroom, ensuring a peaceful and comfortable space to relax after a day of sightseeing. The hotel's excellent facilities and central location make it the perfect accommodation option for travelers like me who value privacy and convenience at an affordable price

Transportation:

For transportation within the city, I have opted to rent a Skoda Karoq, a medium-sized SUV that offers ample space for both passengers and luggage. This car is well-suited to my travel needs, providing comfort and practicality. The car comes with a manual transmission, air conditioning, and a full tank of fuel, ensuring a smooth ride around Barcelona and its surroundings. Additionally, the rental includes 900 km, which is more than sufficient for my planned explorations. I appreciate the free cancellation option, which provides flexibility in case my travel plans change. Renting a car allows me to explore the city and nearby attractions at my own pace, making the trip more enjoyable and hassle-free.

I'm excited to share my plan for exploring Barcelona during my 5-day trip. Here's how I'm planning to divide my time to make the most of this beautiful city.

Food:

During my trip to Barcelona, I've carefully selected a few halal restaurants that offer meals similar to those I'm used to, ensuring a comfortable and familiar dining experience. Bismillah Raval Kebab, located near the Gothic Quarter, is a great choice for its delicious halal kebabs, which I'm sure will satisfy my craving for grilled meat. Arabica is another fantastic option, serving a variety of Arabic and Middle Eastern dishes, providing a taste of home with its rich flavors and familiar spices. Lastly, I'm looking forward to dining at Bombay Spicy, a restaurant that specializes in halal Indian food. I love Indian cuisine, and this restaurant will give me the opportunity to enjoy some of my favorite dishes, prepared with authentic halal ingredients. These options ensure that I can enjoy flavorful meals while keeping in line with my dietary preferences..

Activities and Attractions:

Day 1: Arrival and Initial Exploration

On the first day, I'll arrive in Barcelona and check into my accommodation at TOC Hostel Barcelona. After settling in, I'll start with a leisurely stroll around La Rambla, one of the most famous streets in the city. It's full of life, with street performers, vendors, and cafes. From there, I'll head to Plaça de Catalunya, the central square, which is a great place to get my bearings. I'll end the evening exploring the El Born district, which is known for its lively atmosphere, charming streets, and boutique shops

Day 2: Gaudí's Masterpieces

The second day will be all about Gaudí, one of Barcelona's most famous architects. I'll begin my day with a visit to Sagrada Família, the stunning basilica that's been under construction for over a century. I'm really looking forward to experiencing its incredible design up close. Afterward, I'll head to Park Güell, where I can wander through the beautiful gardens and enjoy the colorful mosaics. In the afternoon, I plan to visit Casa Batlló and Casa Milà (La Pedrera), two of Gaudí's most famous buildings, each with their own unique architectural style. I'll finish my day by taking a walk along Passeig de Gràcia, where I can enjoy the elegance of Barcelona's shops and architecture

Day 3: Gothic Quarter and Montjuïc

On my third day, I'll explore the Gothic Quarter (Barri Gòtic), one of the oldest parts of the city. I'm excited to walk through its narrow, winding streets and visit the Barcelona Cathedral and Plaça del Rei. I'll also take the opportunity to explore the Picasso Museum or the Museu d'Història de Barcelona to learn more about the city's rich history. In the afternoon, I'll head to Montjuïc to visit Montjuïc Castle and the Olympic Stadium. I also plan to check out Poble Espanyol, an open-air museum that showcases different Spanish architectural styles. In the evening, I'll watch the Magic Fountain of Montjuïc light and music show, which I hear is truly spectacular

Day 4: Day Trip to Montserrat or Girona

On the fourth day, I'm planning to take a day trip to Montserrat, a mountain range about an hour outside of Barcelona. I'm particularly excited to visit the Montserrat Monastery and take a cable car to the top for stunning views of the surrounding landscape. Alternatively, I might choose to visit Girona, a beautiful medieval city with picturesque streets. I can't wait to visit the Arab Baths, walk along the city walls, and explore the Girona Cathedral

Day 5: Coastal Relaxation and More Sights

On the final day, I'm planning to head to Costa Brava for a day of relaxation along the coast. I'll explore the charming seaside villages, such as Tossa de Mar or Lloret de Mar, and enjoy some time on the beach. If I decide to stay in Barcelona, I'll visit Park de la Ciutadella, where I can relax by the lake and visit the Barcelona Zoo. I also plan to explore the Museu Nacional d'Art de Catalunya (MNAC), housed in the impressive Palau Nacional. To end the day, I'll have dinner at one of the halal restaurants like Zeeshan Kebabish or Bombay Spicy to enjoy some delicious local food

Budget Breakdown:

The estimated costs for my trip are as follow:

Flight: 2590 Shekels (Round-trip).

Car Rental (5 days): 720 Shekels.

Fuel: 307.5 Shekels

Hotel (5 nights): 430 Shekels

Attractions: 172-248 Shekels

Food (5 days): 123-184.5 Shekels

Day Trip (Girona/Costa Brava): 123-164 Shekels

The total estimated cost for the 5-day stay in Barcelona, including flight, accommodation, car rental, and activities, ranges from 4627.5 to 5567 Shekels

Conclusion:

I am looking forward to a memorable and enjoyable trip to Barcelona. With well-planned travel, comfortable accommodation, and convenient transportation, I am confident that this trip will allow me to explore the city's rich culture, history, and architecture at my own pace.
